

Thanks for your interest in guest posting! I love getting new ideas on activities, crafts, recipes, and parenting tips!

Here are just a few guidelines I ask that you review before submitting your guest post:

- Articles must be original and not published anywhere else online. Articles from freelance writers paid for writing a post with specific links to sponsoring companies will NOT be accepted.
- Articles must be relevant to the content of this blog: activities and resources for parents of young children.
- Preference will be given to high-quality articles that are well written with the objective clearly outlined.
- Please make a concerted effort to use correct spelling, grammar and punctuation. Submissions which require excessive editing cannot be accepted.
- No photos will be included within blog.
- Make sure any and all links within your post are relevant. Please be conscientious about the links you are posting and make sure they are relevant to the content (and not just self-promoting).
- Guest posts should be 500 words or less.
- Include a short bio at the end of your post written in third person.
- Feel free to include a link to your site.

E-mail your guest post submissions to info@the-detour.org with Guest Post Submission as the subject. You will be notified usually within 48 hours if your guest post is approved.

Please include the following in your e-mail:

1. Your full name (though only your first name will be published).
2. Your URL (if applicable).
3. Your post title.
4. The body of your post.
5. A short bio.
